

LEGISLATORS ACT TO END SESSION BY 18TH OF MAY

Movement to Bring Early Adjournment on in Both Houses of Legislature

ACTION WOULD FORCE BLAINE TO SPEED UP HIS TAX PROGRAM

Joint Finance Body Would Find it Necessary to Push Action

MADISON, Wis., March 19.—The Associated Press, two moves to force an early adjournment of the 1923 session of the legislature are planned for the present week.

A joint resolution will probably be introduced into the assembly setting Friday, May 18, as the date when the two houses will have to complete their business and leave for home. In the senate a bill is expected, setting the same time for adjournment.

Speaker John L. Dahl, in the assembly and Senator Herman J. Severson in the senate, are understood to be favorable to these attempts to set a definite time for completion of legislative work. They wish to carry out their promise of a short session.

Should these proposed measures receive the support of both houses, they would force the joint finance committee to push its work through to an early completion, and would make it incumbent upon the governor to get his intended tax bill before the session within the next two weeks. He is reported to be planning a number of speeches throughout the state in advance of finally drafting the measure, he has under contemplation.

One leader in the lower house said that he would favor a move to bring the two general tax bills now before the finance committee down to the floor to be disposed of, either favorably or unfavorably. He said that if the governor did not have his measure prepared by that time, he would not cause a special session to hear his views.

There is the usual expression of hope in the legislature that an adjournment by the middle of May, can be brought about. The leaders declare themselves as willing to do all in their power to bring about such a situation.

Unless the committees get out the important bills, however, and both houses work at a steady pace, there is little hope for completion of the present session before June. The governor may force the members to

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmothers' mustard plaster without the bitter, blistering pain of a white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home remedies. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lambozo, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet—colds of all sorts. Sold in all drug stores. 45c and 60c. Jar and tubular hospital size.

CHICAGO ENGINEERS ANSWER WISCONSIN DRAINAGE CHARGES

Report Declares Same Amount of Water is Taken from Lake as Before Canal Was Built

CHICAGO, Ill.—The same amount of water is flowing from Lake Michigan into the Chicago sanitary district canal in operation, that was flowing from the lake before that canal was constructed in 1900, the report of district engineers published Saturday stated.

This report is in answer to charges by Wisconsin state officials that the taking of water from Lake Michigan through the canal between the Chicago and Des Moines rivers has lowered the lake level and is endangering navigation on the lake. A conference of attorney generals has been called to meet here Monday to investigate the drainage canal and the district officials have invited them to inspect the operation of the canal.

WHEAT SUPPLY GREATER
WASHINGTON.—Wheat on hand at country mills and elevators March 1 totaled 91,516,000 bushels, the department of agriculture announced Saturday. Last year on March 1 stocks totaled 75,071,000 bushels. Two years ago 87,073,000; three years ago 123,235,000, and four years ago 107,027,000.

MADISON LABORATORY TO STUDY MEANS OF WOOD PRESERVATION

MADISON, Wis.—The forest products laboratory will spend more than $30,000 this year to study best methods to preserve wood, according to an announcement Monday. At least $20,000 more is being spent on allied studies.

There is a continuous demand from the whole country for more information on wood preservation with frequent requests that new investigations be started, according to laboratory officials.

35 Cent Bottle of "Danderine" Also Ends Dandruff; Falling Hair!

Immediately—your hair becomes beautiful. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and really appear twice as thick and abundant—a mass of luxuriant, glossy, colorful hair.

Beckles beautifying the hair. Danderine eradicates dandruff, invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is the best, cheapest and most delightful hair corrective and tonic. It is to the hair what fresh showers of rain are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, vitalizes and strengthens them. Its stimulating properties help the hair to grow long, heavy, strong.

You can surely have beautiful hair, and lots of it, if you will spend 35 cents for a bottle of Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter. It is not greasy, oily or sticky.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT—Authorized, written by and $42.00 paid by J. K. Kidder, 142 So. 7th St., La Crosse, Wis., also a La Follette Progressive, before, during and after the war, the purpose of the letter being to correct inaccuracies connected with certain political publicity in connection with the Mayoralty Campaign.

AN OPEN LETTER TO FRED HARTWELL

La Crosse, Wis., March 19, 1923.

Mr. Fred H. Hartwell, Manager of Joe Verchota, City.

Dear Fred:

In view of the fact that you have seen fit to drag me into the mayoralty campaign—something you threatened to do quite awhile back—it becomes necessary for me to correct a few of the inaccuracies in the Verchota advertisement, apparently prepared by yourself or, at least in your office, and which you prevailed upon the Federated Shop Crafts to publish at their expense.

I am surprised that in a campaign which is such a personal affair of yours that you would ask an organization to bear the expense. You know, Fred, you have collected a dollar a year out of the earnings of every union man in town for a number of years for your services and to date I have yet to see it recorded where you ever spent a penny to help elect a La Follette Progressive.

You charge in the Shop Crafts "ad" that I threatened to "kill off" Congressman Beck because he "did not ask Joe Kidder first if he could run."

That, of course, Fred, you know to be false.

The first mention of Joe Beck-for-congress was made in the office of the late James Thompson, twice the La Follette-Progressive candidate for United States senator. I was present when "Jim" mentioned it and so great appeared the opportunity of victory with Mr. Beck as a candidate that I, that same day, with Mr. Thompson's approval, wrote Mr. Beck, then at Viroqua, suggesting that he run and proffering support.

I HAVE A COPY OF THAT LETTER. Mr. Beck has also, I think.

As a result of my note to Mr. Beck he came to La Crosse, consulted with the railroad men, with R. G. Knutson, then organizer for the La Crosse Trades and Labor Council, received assurances of support from the Farmer-Labor Alliance of that year and later gave to me, as a newspaper reporter, for publication, his formal announcement as a candidate for Congress.

The railroad men remember that first campaign of Mr. Beck very well. So do I. I do not remember any great activity on your part.

As a matter of fact, Fred, your interest in Beck did not seem to be aroused until AFTER he was elected. It was then, as I recall, that you wrote him at Washington suggesting that our good old friend, Olaf Skaar—a progressive and "Fair-Minded" Democrat, by the way—be removed from the postmastership to make way for a candidate you had for the berth. All of this, of course, was long before the expiration of Mr. Skaar's term—the term to which he is rightfully entitled despite political shifts of administration.

If you will consult your files I believe you will see that in your letter to Congressman Beck, relative to the La Crosse postmastership, you called Mr. Beck's attention to the fact that you had written several times to Senator La Follette but he hadn't answered your letters.

You make much of the fact that La Follette-Blaine Progressives are supporting Mr. Bentley in this campaign.

Now, seriously, Fred, how had you planned to justify yourself before the people if you had carried out your threat last fall—when we thought we needed every vote we could get to re-elect Governor Blaine—to "quit La Follette and Blaine" and "use" your "influence" to "swing the labor vote" IN FAVOR OF BENTLEY and AGAINST BLAINE?

This threat came from you at a time when the great railroad brotherhoods, the farmers, the working people in general, were backing "Fighting Bob" and Governor Blaine not alone with their votes but with hard cash through their organizations!

This threat came from you at a time when the great Money Power of the country had dumped an immense "slush fund" into Wisconsin for the purpose of beating La Follette. It came at a time when the National Chamber of Commerce—of which the La Crosse organization is a branch—was actively in the fight to down "Bob" and the things he has fought for.

You seem to have a conveniently faulty memory on political history, Fred, so I'll jog it a bit on this particular indication of your ability to do a political back flop.

It was suddenly decided in Madison, during the state campaign last fall, that Mrs. John Blaine, wife of the governor, and Miss Gena Thompson, sister of the late James Thompson, address a meeting of Progressive women in La Crosse. I was requested to arrange it.

Mrs. Gregor Smedal, head of the La Follette-Progressive Women's organization here, agreed to take charge and arranged the meeting, later telling me the details so that a notice could be prepared for the paper.

Col. Ralph Immell, the Governor's secretary, was in town that day and was in my brother's office in the State Bank building when I sauntered in.

"The Blaine-Thompson meeting is all fixed," I told Immell. "Mrs. Smedal has done a fine piece of work. She's arranged to have Mrs. Thomas Morris preside." You were in the office, along with others.

Well, Fred, if I live to be a hundred I'll never forget the look on your face. You turned red as a beet, spluttered but were incapable of speech and without a word rushed out.

We hadn't recovered our breath from the storm your exit had created when the telephone rang and you were on the wire. You know your office is but a few steps from my brother's.

My brother answered and you said: "If Mrs. Morris presides at that meeting I'll quit La Follette and Blaine and use my influence to swing the Labor vote to Bentley."

Vince, my brother, didn't get you at first but finally managed to gasp, "Now, Fred, don't be foolish! Immell's right here. Tell it to him."

The Governor's secretary took the phone and you repeated your threat to him and he in turn, repeated it to the men in the office.

"I know damn well what I do with a man like that, but I'm going to talk to headquarters," said Immell. Whereupon he called the La Follette-Blaine headquarters in Madison and got Robert M. La Follette, Jr., chairman of the campaign and son of the senator, on the wire. He repeated your threat.

"Young Bob's" answer was typical of the family and its illustrious head. "You go back and tell Hartwell," came young La Follette's answer, like a crack out of a gun, "that if the big principles involved in the progressive movement are not above and greater than his personal animosities against 'Tom' Morris and his family he is no progressive, is not wanted in the movement and can get out!"

Mr. Immell carried that message to you and Mrs. Morris presided at the meeting. Remember, Fred?

Frankly, Fred, as I see it, your chief ambition seems to be to set yourself up as a sort of "Hinky Dink" in local politics—state, too, for that matter. This is a mistake. Those days have been passed in Wisconsin. That kind of politics went into the dump heap along with the vicious convention system when the primary was put through by "Bob" La Follette, with the help of an address to a joint session of the legislature by William Jennings Bryan—another democrat, by the way.

You know, Fred, you don't really carry "the labor vote" in your pocket, as you would have people believe. Mr. Verchota hasn't put any different pockets on your vest than he has put on the vests of other of our citizens. "Labor" is not "voted" by you or any other man.

Another thing, Fred, you shouldn't lead a prominent Democrat to believe you can get him Judge Brindley's job if Brindley quits. You might not be able to fix it.

I want to thank you, Fred, for all the nice things you said about me being rich. Would that they were true!

Also, Fred, you are wrong on that Packard car stuff—I've only got a Ford.

I know, though, that if Bob La Follette had his way all we working people would be riding in Packards.

Trusting that you will take this in the same jovial and good-natured spirit in which it is written, I am Sincerely yours,

JOS. K. KIDDER.

Clearing Up

DESPITE the lack of important legislation last week was one of signal importance in state government circles. In a nutshell, what happened was that Governor Blaine moved to clean up the confused situation surrounding proposed tax legislation, and that the action of the governor was received by the legislature respectfully, and in the main gratefully.

Governor Blaine proposed to take the whole tax matter to the people of the state, through signed articles prepared for the press, and perhaps in two or three important speeches. This educational effort will have great value, no doubt. Few of us really know anything about taxes, which always present a difficult and intricate problem. We are apt to look at them from a political rather than an economic standpoint, our impressions evolving along the line of who shall pay and how much, rather than upon consideration of the general effects of taxation.

The trouble in the legislature thus far has been a multiplicity of tax bills, the effects of which were considered separately, without anyone to analyze them taken as a whole and to estimate with some accuracy their aggregate or combined results.

It is understood Governor Blaine, contemporaneously with his educational program, proposes to gather up all the various tax measures and to work out a single concrete tax law based both upon justice to the taxpayers and upon the general welfare. Should he succeed in this undertaking the governor will have performed an important service.

Proposals for Peace

A MOVEMENT seeking the good offices of the United States and England to settle the controversy with France and end French occupation of the Rhineland was started by Germany. The German proposals include immediate withdrawal of allied engineers and officials, troop occupation to continue until settlement, and the settlement to consist of a permanent agreement upon coal and reparations. International loans would be made the basis of payment.

French papers indicate that France is not ready to accept. Great Britain throws out hints that Uncle Sam should take a leading part. Secretary Hughes lets it be known that America will be glad to be useful, but thus far it seems doubtful that our state department will approach the French government on the matter without some intimation that the French government is in a receptive mood.

Charles M. Schwab, Bethlehem steel king, returns from Europe with a declaration that this country should enter the European situation in an economic conference.

After St. Patrick's Day

HERE is an interesting review of the Irish situation since the Free State was created. Sixty-seven rebels have been executed and 10,000 imprisoned. Ten thousand rebels and 10,000 Free State troops are still engaged in a guerrilla warfare. Just one year has elapsed since civil war was declared. Excepting De Valera, the original leaders on both sides are dead. Arthur Griffith met a natural death, and Michael Collins, who with Griffith established the Free State, was assassinated. Dr. Skrine Childers and Rory O'Connor, the rebel leaders, were captured and executed.

Present Free State leaders believe that they will soon have the insurrection stamped out.

Meantime the Irish war comes to America. A Free State St. Patrick's parade in New York City was accompanied by a special guard of several hundred men, owing to threats of attack by Irish republican sympathizers.

Afraid?

THE Mer Rouge grand jury failed to return indictments against clansmen suspected by the government of complicity in the murder of Richards and Daniels, found mutilated in a lake. It is said the government will seek protection by filing separate informations against certain men. The government believes the jury was afraid to indict, for fear of "black hood" vengeance.

A Lenten Editorial

Blessed

By REV. M. R. PHILPOTT,
West Ave. M. E. Church.

THE gospel begins again and again with blessed. Mathew omits the woes and Luke only gives a part of them.

It certainly is appalling to the more serious mind, to observe the large number of people that go through life knowing in their choicest experiences only pleasure. We must realize, however, that the number that experience happiness is very large. At this time I wish you would examine your life and see if you have ever experienced the word blessed.

Pleasure comes from without. Its extent is determined by the money you have, the car you drive, the house you live in and the clothes you wear. What you have will determine your pleasure in life. Happiness is quite different for it comes from within and its extent is determined by one's moral excellence. Thus happiness depends on what you are. But to be blessed is more than to be happy. It is truly divine. The Sermon on the Mount will tell us the ones that are blessed, so let us consider it in part.

Blessed are the poor in spirit. One who has a real conscious need of the gospel is poor in spirit. This receptive vacancy can only be satisfied by the gospel. You can readily see that if the spirit be full and satisfied with earthly good then there is no room for the gospel.

Blessed are they that mourn. The teacher is considering religious grief for when one mourns because of his sin the only comfort is divine forgiveness.

Blessed are the peacemakers. It is splendid that people live in concord and that kindly affection between men be made, but those who persuade others to make their peace with God are the real peacemakers. We should strive to develop that lasting peace that comes from an inner Christ rather than an outward calm.

Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness. We must develop an appetite for all that is right and good. Dead folks never get hungry but those that are alive do. One that is dead in sin will not hunger and thirst for God.

Blessed are the pure in heart. You cannot purify the water in a well by painting the pump, neither can a man be made new by changing his clothes. Jesus is calling our attention to the condition of things within instead of asking us to look outside for happiness and cheer. We must strive to live in a manner that will not offend God. Purity will make us like Him.

Mr. Reader, turn to the fifth chapter of Mathew and read it and then decide which you want to be, happy or blessed.

Beautiful Betty

By LILLIAN M. MITCHELL.
Betty Mason sat in a stumpy chair as Betty spread out the various letters and telegrams before him.

"There," she said, when he had finished reading the last one, "you never dreamed, Bob, when you sent me my photograph to the beauty contest that I would be proclaimed the most beautiful girl in seventeen states, did you?"

"Why, yes," he answered hesitatingly. "I did. But I didn't think about the aftermath, Betty."

"The aftermath," she repeated wonderingly.

He indicated the letters and telegrams spread on the table beside them. "I knew that you would win the prize for beauty, but I did not think about the offers you would have to go into the movies and to go into magazine work and to be model for magazine cover artists."

Betty's lips, parting in one of her rare smiles, displayed her exceptionally even white teeth. "I'd never have had all of these offers, Bob, if it hadn't been for you. I really thought that you sent the picture in more for a joke than anything else."

"I wish to heaven I'd never sent it in!" Bob ground out between his clenched teeth.

And that was the start of it. For a whole week Betty refused to see him and gave no reason. The next week, when he telephoned her each evening she was busy or she had an engagement, or her father wanted her to go driving with him, or she was helping him with his algebra.

Never a word was said about the movie picture contracts or the offers to go into vaudeville work.

Tragically drawing plans in the office each day, Bob tried to forget that he had ever dreamed about a little home with Betty as wife and mother. Such a dream had been dreamed by him, although he had never spoken definitely to Betty about them. He had waited until he thought his salary would be sufficient for them to marry and have a little house, and can perhaps, to make them happy. He had waited, he figured now, too long.

Forty-five days, as he sketched plans for bridges and cooling stations, he rehearsed about the wretched day he had seen the announcement of the prize for the most beautiful girl in the surrounding states. He had always thought Betty pretty, but that she was the most beautiful girl in that territory he had not dreamed.

It had been on the spur of the moment, as they looked over the paper together, that he had said:

"I'm going to send in your picture, Betty. Wouldn't it be nice to be called the prettiest girl in seventeen states? That's the most territory that has ever been covered by a local beauty contest, I guess."

Betty had merrily laughed, but beneath the laugh he knew that she would like to see her picture in the paper, at least, and perhaps be awarded the second or third prize. The first prize itself carried with it a cash award of $10,000, besides the honor of winning.

This morning as Bob worked on the new cooling station that was to be erected on the edge of the desert in the west the office manager passed the desk.

"The firm's talking about opening a western office," he let fall. "I wish they'd send me out there. There are big opportunities right now in the west I can tell you. Think of the new bridges and cooling stations that will have to be erected! Man, a fortune could be cleaned up in ten years out there, besides living in God's country instead of this stifling city."

Long after the manager passed on, Bob stared at the paper before him, and everything. His eyes were on the drawing he had made.

But a western office with himself as assistant to the manager, in an office like that, the opportunities would not be the only thing to be considered; the salary would be excellent and on a salary like that why, a man could marry!

Betty had said that she was going to shop downtown and whenever she was downtown at noon she lunched at a certain place where Bob met her. This noon he went there and told her about the possibility of going west.

He knew that the manager had not dropped the information casually, but that it had been said to prepare him for later news.

"It would be a good salary, Betty," Bob finally said rather diffidently. "If I go out there as assistant and make good, would you marry me?"

He felt as he spoke that it was his time to ask, for what girl would give up a movie career to marry a mechanical engineer and settle down to be a little housewife? He felt compelled to make an addition to what he had already said.

"I mean, of course, after you've tried the movie and vaudeville—and everything," he continued, calmly.

"Movie?" repeated Betty. "I'm not going into the movies, I may be pretty and all of that, but I'm no actress, Bob, and I know it. Looks like that, the opportunities would be all right, but I've never been trained to act. More than that, they say the brilliant lights hurt one's eyes, and really spoil the hair. Why, I wouldn't go for worlds. It was love, I'd have the chance, of course, but that's all."

Bob stared at her in amazement. "What I was thinking, Boba, when I spoke," she continued, calmly.

Who don't want dingy film on teeth

This offers you a method millions now employ. It is used the world over—in some 50 countries—by people who want to fight film.

You see the results everywhere. New charm, new beauty comes from glistening teeth. Now we urge you to learn, by a delightful test, how such teeth are acquired.

Film—the great enemy

Film is the teeth's great enemy—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why beautiful teeth were seen less often than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why few escaped tooth troubles.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

So dental science sought ways to fight film, and in time found two. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Constant guardians

Pepsodent also creates constant guardians. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

'Twill delight you

The Pepsodent results will amaze and delight you. This test may change the whole dental history in your home.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

COOKERY CLASS AT H. S. GETS STUFF ACROSS

"Real, practical home-cooking" is the slogan of Mrs. L. O. Holly, director of the home economics department in the city schools. According to her ideas, the department should produce real home makers and home managers.

"To make our work more practical," she said on Saturday, "we have in the high school classes, done cooking for people in town when they furnished the materials. It gives good practice to the girls and develops their sense of responsibility. Each year we do the cooking for a number of people, and some of the husbands say that the girls produce the best cooking and preserving they have ever tasted."

"Of course the girls do the work themselves. I am ready to offer suggestions if they need them, but it is their own hands which prepare the fruit. Besides canning and preserving, we often make mayonnaise dressing and other things of this sort for people. We do not charge for our services if our pupils furnish the materials. We have never spoiled anything, because the girls are really excellent cooks."

"Occasionally we do something for the lunch room at high school, too. What we want is the experience which this kind of work gives the girls, and we are willing to give the service to any who wish it as long as we can accommodate them."

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

TITLE KEROSENE WOODWORK

A little kerosene added to the water with which you clean the wood work will be most beneficial.

WITH CAKE ICING

A teaspoon of vinegar added to the icing, using white, is cooking for years. It keeps becoming sweeter.

BAKES THEM BETTER

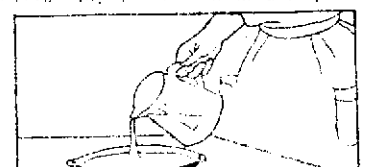

A cup of water added to the cake mix will make cakes, cookies, etc. really bake evenly.

KILLS THE ODOR

Frying pans in which fish or other food has been cooked sometimes retain a very objectionable odor. To get rid of this put vinegar in the pan and heat to the boiling point. Then wash the dish in soap and water.

KEEPS YOLKS FRESH

To keep the yolks of eggs fresh for several days, cover them gently with oil water, taking care not to break them.

CLEANS THE PAINT

You can remove the fingerprints that inevitably cluster about every doorway that is frequently used by washing with a clean cloth dipped in kerosene. Then go over the surface with a clean washing out of the water.

LARD PREVENTS RUST

When you have new tools or pictures, or any sort of thing, before using it rub the surface well with lard. It will keep the metal thoroughly in the even. This will prevent rust.

GOT A RUG? THEY MAKE NICE COATS

To buy a rug to make a coat is quite the correct thing these times.

It should be a heavier rug—preferably a nice Scotch plaid.

When you have your rug, you make it into a straight, unbelated coat, fastening on one side. It isn't lined, its edges are bound with heavy silk braid.

Putting a rug, you can make camel's hair or some heavy English fabric do for your heavy top coat.

Two short models are shown in these styles. The coats usually come well below the dress hem.

BLACK AND WHITE

A gown of black satin has an elaborate front drapery lined with white satin. The lining is slightly revealed, and makes an interesting arrangement of black and white effects, which is much more popular than unrelieved black.

Painters have adopted Blue Devil to clean their brushes; why not you?

THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble.

You can stop them now with Creosolone, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolone is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

To all those who are prone to re-

HERE'S SOME GOOD NEWS

There is now a Quick Quaker Oats, ready for serving in 3 to 5 minutes. You never saw oat flakes which cook nearly so quickly.

That same delicious flavor which won the world to Quaker. None but the finest grains go into Quaker Oats. But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now your grocer has two styles of these extra-flavor oats. The quick style is called Quick Quaker.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark, brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham will cut down the cost of your smoking.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

Here's one reason: The government tax alone on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 15 cents—5 CENTS MORE THAN THE COST OF 50 "BULL" DURHAM CIGARETTES TO YOU!

The average smoker saves $1 to $1.50 a week by "rolling his own" from "Bull"—or from $52 to $78 a year. This makes quite a Christmas fund—or pays for a fine trip.

"BULL" DURHAM TOBACCO

★ What a place "Bull" Durham holds in the hearts of Americans! Can you think of any other brand that has been the favorite of three generations?

Look at its history. From the Civil War to the Great War "Bull" Durham has been the American's greatest standby. Sixty years.

There really is no smoke in the world so altogether satisfactory.

A "Bull" smoker never switches. You can't interest him in any new experiments. He carries his preference wherever he goes.

This is because the special flavor and aroma of "Bull" Durham make a cigarette that can not be duplicated.

Find out. You will never know how good a cigarette can really be until you roll your own out of "Bull".
